WE ARE GRAY-NICOLLS

Gray-Nicolls have supplied top class equipment to the world's greatest cricketers for centuries. Our current crop of brand ambassadors includes the likes of Alastair Cook, Ben Foakes and Kane Williamson who can be seen donning the iconic red flash on their equipment across the UK and worldwide. We support cricket in the UK and throughout the world through our official supplier status with the ICC and Chance to Shine.

While Gray-Nicolls might be synonymous with cricket bats, up and down the country it is Teamwear that gives the brand perhaps the greatest visibility. From county professionals to Sunday village teams, Gray-Nicolls represents all levels on the field, with a fantastic selection of on-field and training gear, engineered for a modern, athletic fit, which is so desired by professional cricketers of today, or a more relaxed fit for casual players.

Worcestershire CCC and Durham CCC wear Gray-Nicolls Teamwear in the UK domestic competitions, with Worcestershire being crowned the T20 Champions in 2018. Ed Barnard, central to the counties success in 2018, said of the clothing, "I think the lads have all really enjoyed it. They're really enjoying the fit of the kit, especially the whites and I think they're really enjoying the new modern fit that comes with that."

The Pro Performance Collection, including the signature white playing shirt, offers style and performance in abundance. The lightweight, soft feel Polyester and Spandex material with breathable punch whole technology is just one example of the craft and expertise that go into creating a Gray-Nicolls product. Our storm collection offers comfort and durability, and our dedicated coloured match wear caters for the onset of limited overs cricket.

Our Made to Collection features UK manufactured sublimated matchwear, available in only 4 weeks.
